

could not have succeeded without the quality submissions of our authors and the diligence of our peer reviewers, associate editors, editorial board, and managing editor. I hope you find the content thoughtful and useful as we continue to improve education and training for the U.S. Army, the overall Profession of Arms, and the Nation.

Going forward, I invite all practitioners, researchers, academics, and military professionals to submit manuscripts that address the issues and challenges of adult education and training. A detailed call for papers and the submission guidelines can be found at <http://www.armyupress.army.mil/Journals/Journal-of-Military-Learning>.
